BLAST ENTOMBS 300 MINERS

GAS EXPLOSION WRECKS KINLOCH MINE TODAY

WITHIN 5 HOURS ALL BUT 85 OF MEN IN WORKINGS OF PENN-SYLVANIA MINE RESCUED

ALL EFFORTS MADE TO SAVE RE-MAINDER FROM SUFFOCATION
—SOME BODIES FOUND

Parnassus, Pa., March 21.—(UP)—
The fate of at least 50 miners entombled in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company by an explosion was doubtful this afternoon, rescue workers and mine company officials reported.

It was feared that the men may have been killed in the explosion which wrecked the mine workings and entombed between 250 and 300 men.

Approximately 200 of the miners escaped through an unused entrance of the Valley Camp Coal Company which connects with the Kinloch mine.

O. F. Taylor, superintendent of the mine, estimated that 260 men were in the workings at the time of the explosion.

Parnassus, Pa., March 21.—(UP)—
Less than five hours after an explosion wrecked the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Co. today all but 85 of the more than 300 miners in the workings at the time had been rescued.

Fighting their way through the gas filled chambers of the mine, approximately 100 of the entombed men reached safety through the entrance to the Valley Camp Mine No. 1.

The entrance to this mine which connects with the Kinloch workings, is about three miles from the shaft where the full force of the explosion struck.

A short time later Edward Jones,
assistant pit boss, led more than 100 additional miners from the mouth of the Valley Camp mine No. 1.

None of the 200 miners who escaped was injured from the gas or from burns. All were able to walk without assistance.

Hospitals at New Kensington and nearby boroughs reported receiving approximately a dozen injured miners for treatment. None was injured seriously.

Miners who escaped from the workings reported seeing bodies of miners killed in the blast, but up until noon no bodies had been removed and no check could be made on the dead.

Rescue workers reported seeing the bodies of miners along the slope of the mine about noon. No effort was made to bring them to the surface, rescuers said, because they want to push their way into the workings in the prospect of reaching the other missing men before they have suffocated.

There is a chance of rescuing alive
the approximately 85 men still missing, mine experts said.

It was feared that the fire is still burning at the foot of the shaft.

Parnassus, Pa., March 21.—(UP)—
More than 300 men were entombed in the Kinloch mine of Valley Camp Coal Company here today by a terrific explosion which wrecked the mine, officials of the company announced.

The explosion occurred at 7:20
A. M., a few minutes before the change of night and day shifts.

First reports to the United States bureau of mines at Pittsburgh said that at least 50 men were killed, but this report could not be verified.

Rescue crews of the Valley Camp Coal Company and adjoining mine companies were rushed to the mine.
A mine rescue car operated by the United States bureau of mines was brought here from Curtsville, a few miles away.

The blast which was felt for miles occurred at 7:30 A. M., shortly after the men went to work.

The small mining town of Kinloch was thrown into excitement and many miners, who left the mine after working all night, hurried to the entrance.

Several called police, firemen and the Pittsburgh office of the United States bureau of mines.

Plans were rushed to send rescue crews to the mine.

Injured were being removed to the Citizens' General Hospital, indicating that the explosion was disastrous.

Houses for two miles about the mine were rocked by the explosion.
Witnesses said a shaft of flames shot

FAG TAX BILL

IS APPROVED

AFTER 2 DAYS DEBATE, HOUSE
AS COMMITTEE OF WHOLE, RECOMMENDS FOR PASSAGE

2 CENTS STATE TAX ON EACH PACKAGE, 1 CENT ON CIGARETTE PAPERS

St. Paul, March 21.—(UP)—The Minnesota cigarette tax bill today had cleared the first hurdle in its path to enactment and had started toward two more barriers which even its strongest advocates feared might be too high to leap.

Following two days of debate, the house sitting as a committee of the whole, recommended for passage late Wednesday the bill introduced by Rep. Roy E. Dunn, Pelican Rapids, which would impose a 2 cent state tax on each package of 20 cigarettes and 1 cent on cigarette papers.

The bill was therefore advanced to the house calendar and also still faces the senate where the odds against it are said to be overwhelming.

Dunn had prophesied that 72 representatives had lined up behind him for the passage of the measure which he said would bring $1,500,- 000 to the state treasury each year and the 68 to 40 vote of the house revealed that he was not far wrong.

Among his most ardent supporters were Representatives Otto C. Kolshorn, Red Wing, Matt J. Rhone, London, and John L. Jordahl, Lake Ben-den, while opposing them were among others Representatives Frank Tarkey, St. Paul and Joseph Kozlak, Minneapolis.

"Cigarettes are a public nuisance," Jordahl said, "and I think they are luxuries."

"I have walked along the streets of Minneapolis and have seen cigarettes half-smoked thrown away."

"If this tax is such a burden to the smokers they can smoke their cigarettes shorter."

Kozlak arose to say that the "fags" had done a good deal of good during the World war as attested by the fact that millions were shipped overseas and our soldiers clamored for them.

Starkey then contributed his bit of opposition to the bill. He described it as an "opening wedge for all sorts of sales taxes. Is built on the wrong principle and should be voted down."

The bill is expected soon to come before the house for final action and no doubt will pass. It is given little chance to survive the senate.

Governor Theodore Christianson made it clear sometime ago that he was "out" of the cigarette fight and he gave no indication whether he would sign the bill, if it passed, or give it his veto.

200 feet in the air from the mine shaft. It was feared that many of the miners were burned to death.

The force of the blast was believed to have wrecked much of the temporary and permanent bracing work in the mine and resultant cave-ins may add to the difficulties of rescue work.

A mine official said the explosion was caused by sparks from a conveyor belt as its steel raps slid about a pulley wheel at the foot of the shaft.
The sparks, the mine official said, probably found a gas pocket and the explosion followed.

A fan house 200 yards from the main tippie was blown to bits and its framework burned by the flames which belched from the mine shaft.

Two entries from the mine located at points five miles from the main entrance may afford an opportunity for some of the men to escape, rescue crews believed.

A few men were removed from the shaft of the mine, but no accurate check of the dead could be made immediately.

Washington, March 21.—National headquarters of the American Red Cross organized rapidly today to help with relief work at the Kinloch mine in Pennsylvania where 300 men were entombed by an explosion.

Two trained disaster workers,
Walter Davidson, assistant manager of the eastern area, and C. L. Greenlee, field representative for western Pennsylvania, hastened to the scene to take charge of the work.

CAL APPRECIATES VERSES WRITTEN BY 14 YEAR OLD GIRL

Taunton, Mass., March 21.—(UP)—
A poem entitled "Calvin Coolidge" which she wrote for St. Nicholas magazine has brought Miss Thoreau Raymond, 14 a letter of praise from the subject of her verse. The letter read:

"Permit me to thank you for the poem in St. Nicholas, not because it is about me or because I feel worthy of it, but because it is good. It shows you can work and think. I hope you will study hard and keep on working and thinking."

"Sincerely,
(Signed) "Calvin Coolidge."

GOV. JOHNSTON OF OKLAHOMA LOSES HIS JOB

STATE PREPARES TODAY TO BE RULED BY A NEW EXECUTIVE

JOHNSTON WAS REMOVED YES-TERDAY ON A CHARGE OF
GENERAL INCOMPETENCY

Oklahoma City, March 21.—(UP)—
Its gubernatorial impeachment proceeding out of the way, Oklahoma prepared today to be ruled by a new governor for the next two years.

The removal of Henry S. Johnston from the office of governor yesterday on a charge of general incompetency, and the elevation of Lieut. Gov. W.
J. Holloway to the chief executive's chair, was not expected to be the end of this state's current impeachment mania.

Rumors, with a semblance of truth, were cast freely about hotel lobbies last night that the present legislature would proceed immediately to consider impeachment charges against three supreme court justices.

EASTER EGG ROLLING CUSTOM ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN

Washington, March 21.—(UP)—The old custom of Easter egg rolling on the White House lawn will be continued under President Hoover, it was learned at the White House today.

The Easter egg rolling has been a festive occasion for children of the capital and is one of the high spots in the White House social calendar every year. It frequently attracts as many as 3,500 participants.

"The Motors Went Out on Me"

Lying severely injured in the hospital, Pilot Lou Foote, right, told his grief-stricken wife, left, that it was the failure of the motors which caused him to make the forced landing in the big Ford plane when 14 passengers were crushed to death on the side of loaded freight car near Newark, N. J., airport. The pilot is the only person in the fatal flight who still lives.

AFFECTING 800 MEN IN THE SHOPS AND ROUNDHOUSE

NEW WAGE SCALE BECOMES EF-FECTIVE APRIL 1, 1929; RUNS
TO DECEMBER 31, 1930

WAGE INCREASE RANGE FROM 2
TO 5 CENTS AN HOUR, SWELL-
ING PAYROLL HERE

Wage increases were granted shop and roundhouse employees of the N. P. railway late yesterday, following two weeks' negotiations between the company and the men, it was officially announced today at St. Paul.

The increase will affect approximately 800 men in the Brainerd shops, it was learned here. The new wage scale with increases of 2 to 5 cents an hour will go into effect April 1 and continue in operation until December 31, 1930.

As near as can be ascertained,
the approximate increase in pay-rolls at Brainerd will be from $5,000 to $6,000 a month.

A United Press dispatch from St. Paul reported that wage increases ranging from 2 to 5 cents an hour were granted late Wednesday by the Northern Pacific railway to the 5,500 shop and roundhouse workers over the entire system, S. S. Wilder, assistant vice president, announced.

The wage increases will be effective April 1, 1929, to December 31, 1930, and will swell the railroad's annual payroll by $500,000.

E. N. Rogers, Billings, Montana, headed the committee of 33 shop-workers who conferred with the rail heads for two weeks before the increases were granted. Similar settlements recently have been made by the Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Rock Island and Burlington systems.

G. N. AND SOO LINE MEN ASK INCREASE

St. Paul, March 21.—Close upon the announcement that the Northern Pacific railway had granted wage increases to its 5,500 shop workmen came the knowledge today that similar increases will be asked by 10,000 shop craft men of the Great Northern and Soo Line systems.

The associated organization of the shop craft of the two roads have requested that dates be set for wage conferences.

If the 2 to 5 cents an hour increases granted to workmen by the Northern Pacific are likewise allowed by the Great Northern and Soo

Line, the aggregate annual payroll increase of the three roads would be approximately $1,400,000. The Great Northern has some 7,500 shop men while the Soo Line has 2,500.

DOGS WHO BAY AT THE MOON ARE PROTECTED IN TOLEDO

Toledo, Ohio, March 21.—(UP)— Dogs who bark in the stillness of the night here can continue their vocal calisthenics without interruption. The city council so rules when it tabled an ordinance proposing to eliminate the barking of dogs by banning them from the city.

CANADA'S WORST TRAIN WRECK IS INVESTIGATED

19 LIVES SNUFFED OUT, MANY OF THEM COLONISTS TO NEW HOMES

6 CARS AND ENGINE HURLED
FROM TRACK NEAR DRO-COURT, ONT.

Toronto, Ont., March 21.—(UP)— Canada's worst train wreck in 20 years was under investigation today as officials sought the cause of a head-on collision which took the lives of at least 19 persons, many of them colonists setting out with high hopes for a new career in the west.

Six cars and an engine were hurled from the track as two crack passenger trains, running between Toronto and Winnipeg, crashed together in the darkness early yesterday. First reports of the investigation indicated one of the engineers had run past an ordered stop at Drocourt.

Those killed were mostly among the immigrants, traveling in a colonist car immediately behind the engine of the westbound train. A dozen or more were killed outright or pinned in the wreckage and burned to death. The car was of steel but lined with wood because of climatic conditions.

A coal stove, about which the colonists warmed themselves or prepared their meals overturned and started the fire.

Heart-rending stories of the disaster were told by those who escaped.
"One woman kept screaming until she was burned to death," said J. E.
Harcourt. "I saw several skulls and human bones burning."

Several children were believed among the dead.

Washington, March 21.—Robert
Nelson, youngest son of Congressman John Nelson of Wisconsin, is reported missing in the Canadian National railway wreck at Drocourt. Harold Nelson, who was accompanying his brother on a Canadian tour, was uninjured, according to reports received by the congressman.

LINDBERGH-MORROW NUPTIALS MAY BE CELEBRATED IN JUNE

Mexico City, March 21.—(UP)—Miss Anne Morrow and Col. Charles A.
Lindbergh will be married some time in June, it was said in official circles here today.

Lindbergh is expected to make one or two flights to Mexico City before June, in order, it is said, to fix the exact date and place of the ceremony.
Meanwhile Miss Morrow's trousseau is being prepared and it is understood it will be ready by the end of May.

Friends of the couple believe that the colonel and his future wife favor Mexico, probably Cuernavaca, as a wedding place. The Morrow home is at Cuernavaca.

ENGLISH ACTRESS MARRIES BARON

London, March 21.—(UP)—The famous English actress, "June," today became Lady Inverclyde at St. Columbus church where she was joined in marriage to the 32-year-old fourth Baron of Inverclyde, John Alan Burns.
The marriage revealed that the actress' real name, which during her stage career has been withheld, was Miss Howard Tripp.

QUESTIONNAIRE ON SEX STIRS UP REVOLT IN SCHOOL

ACADEMIC REBELLION SPLITS
UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI
WIDE OPEN

HAS EVEN EMBROILED STATE LEGISLATURE IN THE ARGUMENT

Columbia, Mo., March 21.—(UP)—
An academic rebellion, which split the University of Missouri wide open and embroiled the state legislature, settled today into trench warfare as rival factions consolidated their lines after broadsides of oratory and resolutions.

A questionnaire on matters of sex distributed to 1,000 students here—cause of the revolt—stands discredited by the executive committee of the board of curators. Three members of the faculty were ousted because of it yesterday, and a fourth resigned.

Raising the slogan, "Freedom of Speech, Thought and Pursuit of Truth," 3,000 members of the student body last night unanimously adopted a resolution urging the curators to reinstate the ousted faculty members, in whom they expressed "confidence and trust."

There the matter, which has rocked this university for a week, probably will rest until April 6 when the curators meet in plenary session at Kansas City to act on the recommendation that the ousters be made permanent.

The ousted professors and their sympathetic student followers took a liberal view of the matter and denounced the state legislature for allegedly "meddling."

Columbia, Mo., March 21.—The sex questionnaire, which sent three University of Missouri professors looking for new jobs and raised a furore on the campus, was distributed as a part of the work in a sociology class and asked thirty frank questions of students.

It was sent to 1,000 students and many answers were returned before the storm broke. The answers are being suppressed.

The first question and the frankest one was addressed to young men and asked:

"If you found a young woman, to whom you were engaged, had been sexually immoral, would you break the engagement?"

Another asked what he would do if he found she had been immoral for money.

Another addressed to co-eds was:
"Would you quit associating with a man, married or unmarried, on learning that at some time he had engaged in moral irregularities?"

CALVIN COOLIDGE GETS CAR LICENSE

Springfield, Mass., March 21.—(UP)— Calvin Coolidge, in applying for a license at the registry office here to operate his newly acquired automobile, filled out a form just as any plain citizen must.

Over the line marked "occupation"
he wrote simply, "retired."

The car is that which he used during his last year in the White House.

CLOSED BANK PAYS DIVIDEND

St. Paul, March 21.—(UP)—Depositors of the closed State Bank of Genola today were mailed dividend checks No.
1 of 30 per cent which totalled $13,- 638, according to A. J. Veigel, state banking commissioner. The institution closed Sept. 17, 1928.

AIRPLANE ROAR HUSHED TO JUST ABOUT A WHISPER

Curtiss Field, L. L., March 21.—

BODY OF FIELD MARSHAL FOCH LIES IN STATE

NOT FAR FROM ETERNAL FLAME
AT TOMB OF UNKNOWN
POILU

CLAD IN DARK BLUE UNIFORM
OF HIS COUNTRY, WARRIOR
SLEEPS QUIETLY

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, March 21.—The body of Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch, victor over everything but death, lay in state today not far from the eternal flame at the tomb of the unknown poilu.

Clad in the dark blue uniform of his country and decorated with the bright ribbons of her highest honors, the "little warrior" slept quietly at last behind the shattered windows of his home on Rue De Grenelles.

France knelt—on the first day of spring—before the bier of the mild-mannered military genius who claimed, in death, the redoubled esteem and adoration of the nation which had honored him as victor and savior.
Statesmen, peasants and veterans of the world's great war were joined by ambassadors of many nations in humble tribute to France's hero.

Heir to the military glory of Napoleon and of Ney, the supreme commander of the allied war-time armies will lie for a day with most humble of his men beneath the broad curve of the Arc De Triomphe.

Then, after the greatest national funeral honors which France can bestow, the body will rest in the Invalides.

The funeral will be the greatest ever given a French hero, official sources announced. The national services will be delayed until Sunday or Monday to permit time for arrival of foreign delegations.

Premier Poincare announced, after a conference of the cabinet and General Weyand, who represented
Madame Foch, that the Marshal's funeral would be Tuesday. Burial will be in the Invalides, the premier said.

Preparations were made to receive the body in a crypt at the Invalides between the tombs of Rouget De Lisle, author of the French national anthem, and Marshal Foyolle, not far from the tomb of Napoleon.

There will be a day of national mourning in honor of the man who turned back invading armies from Paris more than a decade ago. Business places will be closed and special arrangements are being made to permit the crippled war veterans, particularly those unable to walk, to pay their last tribute.

Against the gorgeous artificial background of pomp and ceremony, there stood out today the deep and simple grief of a common people for one of their most beloved heroes.

There was no display nor ceremony among these soldiers, laborers and housewives but only an unusual quietness which hid a sincere sorrow for the little man who died when he wanted "Oh, so much!" to walk again in the bright sun outside the shuttered windows.

There was satisfaction, too, in the hearts of the men who had come back from the mud of trenches in Flanders that "Le Marechal" had uttered, even with his last breath, the cry of the poilu: "Allons Y!" (Let's go.)

His physicians had permitted the patient to sit in a chair by the window and watch the street below.
Half an hour later his nurse informed him it was time to return to bed.

Madame Foch was seated near the door of the bed room when the marshal died. A priest gave him final absolution several weeks ago but Father Thande, the marshal's confessor, arrived too late after the last hurried summons.

President Doumergue spent ten minutes before the bier this morning. Georges Clemenceau also visited the Foch home.

American Ambassador Herrick was to visit Madame Foch at noon to convey a message of sympathy from President Hoover.

Marshal Foch's will was read this morning. It was learned that all property was left to the immediate family. Madame Foch was given complete freedom as to place and style of burial.

Plans were speeded to permit the public to view the body Friday either under the Arc De Triomphe or at the Invalides.

A few men were removed from the shaft of the mine, but no accurate check of the dead could be made immediately.

Washington, March 21.—National headquarters of the American Red Cross organized rapidly today to help with relief work at the Kinloch mine in Pennsylvania where 300 men were entombed by an explosion.

Two trained disaster workers, Walter Davison, assistant manager of the eastern area, and C. L. Greenlee, field representative for western Pennsylvania, hastened to the scene to take charge of the work.

CAL APPRECIATES VERSES WRITTEN BY 14 YEAR OLD GIRL

Taunton, Mass., March 21.—(UP)—
A poem entitled "Calvin Coolidge" which she wrote for St. Nicholas magazine has brought Miss Thoreau Raymond, 14, a letter of praise from the subject of her verse. The letter read:

"My Dear Young Lady:
"Permit me to thank you for the poem in St. Nicholas, not because it is about me or because I feel worthy of it, but because it is good. It shows you can work and think. I hope you will study hard and keep on working and thinking."

"Sincerely,
(Signed) "Calvin Coolidge."

GOV. JOHNSTON OF OKLAHOMA LOSES HIS JOB

STATE PREPARES TODAY TO BE RULED BY A NEW EXECUTIVE

JOHNSTON WAS REMOVED YES-TERDAY ON A CHARGE OF
GENERAL INCOMPETENCY

Oklahoma City, March 21.—(UP)—
Its gubernatorial impeachment proceeding out of the way, Oklahoma prepared today to be ruled by a new governor for the next two years.

The removal of Henry S. Johnston from the office of governor yesterday on a charge of general incompetency, and the elevation of Lieut. Gov. W. J. Holloway to the chief executive's chair, was not expected to be the end of this state's current impeachment mania.

Rumors, with a semblance of truth, were cast freely about hotel lobbies last night that the present legislature would proceed immediately to consider impeachment charges against three supreme court justices.

EASTER EGG ROLLING CUSTOM ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN

Washington, March 21.—(UP)—The old custom of Easter egg rolling on the White House lawn will be continued under President Hoover, it was learned at the White House today.

The Easter egg rolling has been a festive occasion for children of the capital and is one of the high spots in the White House social calendar every year. It frequently attracts as many as 3,500 participants.

AFFECTING 800 MEN IN THE SHOPS AND ROUNDHOUSE

NEW WAGE SCALE BECOMES EF-
FECTIVE APRIL 1, 1929; RUNS
TO DECEMBER 31, 1930

WAGE INCREASE RANGE FROM 2
TO 5 CENTS AN HOUR, SWELL-
ING PAYROLL HERE

Wage increases were granted shop and roundhouse employees of the N. P. railway late yesterday, following two weeks' negotiations between the company and the men, it was officially announced today at St. Paul.

The increase will affect approximately 800 men in the Brainerd shops, it was learned here. The new wage scale with increases of 2 to 5 cents an hour will go into effect April 1 and continue in operation until December 31, 1930.

As near as can be ascertained, the approximate increase in payrolls at Brainerd will be from $5,000 to $6,000 a month.

A United Press dispatch from St. Paul reported that wage increases ranging from 2 to 5 cents an hour were granted late Wednesday by the Northern Pacific railway to the 5,500 shop and roundhouse workers over the entire system. S. S. Wilder, assistant vice president, announced.

The wage increases will be effective April 1, 1929, to December 31, 1930, and will swell the railroad's annual payroll by $500,000.

E. N. Rogers, Billings, Montana, headed the committee of 33 shopworkers who conferred with the rail heads for two weeks before the increases were granted. Similar settlements recently have been made by the Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Rock Island and Burlington systems.

G. N. AND SOO LINE MEN ASK INCREASE

St. Paul, March 21.—Close upon the announcement that the Northern Pacific railway had granted wage increases to its 5,500 shop workmen came the knowledge today that similar increases will be asked by 10,000 shop craft men of the Great Northern and Soo Line systems.

The associated organization of the shop craft of the two roads have requested that dates be set for wage conferences.

If the 2 to 5 cents an hour increases granted to workmen by the Northern Pacific are likewise allowed by the Great Northern and Soo Line, the aggregate annual payroll increase of the three roads would be approximately $1,400,000. The Great Northern has some 7,500 shop men while the Soo Line has 2,500.

DOGS WHO BAY AT THE MOON ARE PROTECTED IN TOLEDO

Toledo, Ohio, March 21.—(UP)—
Dogs who bark in the stillness of the night here can continue their vocal calisthenics without interruption. The city council so rules when it tabled an ordinance proposing to eliminate the barking of dogs by banning them from the city.

CANADA'S WORST TRAIN WRECK IS INVESTIGATED

19 LIVES SNUFFED OUT, MANY OF THEM COLONISTS TO
NEW HOMES

6 CARS AND ENGINE HURLED
FROM TRACK NEAR DROCOURT, ONT.

Toronto, Ont., March 21.—(UP)—
Canada's worst train wreck in 20 years was under investigation today as officials sought the cause of a head-on collision which took the lives of at least 19 persons, many of them colonists setting out with high hopes for a new career in the west.

Six cars and an engine were hurled from the track as two crack passenger trains, running between Toronto and Winnipeg, crashed together in the darkness early yesterday. First reports of the investigation indicated one of the engineers had run past an ordered stop at Drocourt.

Those killed were mostly among the immigrants, traveling in a colonist car immediately behind the engine of the westbound train. A dozen or more were killed outright or pinned in the wreckage and burned to death. The car was of steel but lined with wood because of climatic conditions.

A coal stove, about which the colonists warmed themselves or prepared their meals overturned and started the fire.

Heart-rending stories of the disaster were told by those who escaped.

"One woman kept screaming until she was burned to death," said J. E. Harcourt. "I saw several skulls and human bones burning."

Several children were believed among the dead.

Washington, March 21.—Robert Nelson, youngest son of Congressman John Nelson of Wisconsin, is reported missing in the Canadian National railway wreck at Drocourt. Harold Nelson, who was accompanying his brother on a Canadian tour, was injured, according to reports received by the congressman.

LINDBERGH-MORROW NUPTIALS MAY BE CELEBRATED IN JUNE

Mexico City, March 21.—(UP)—Miss Anne Morrow and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be married some time in June, it was said in official circles here today.

Lindbergh is expected to make one or two flights to Mexico City before June, in order, it is said, to fix the exact date and place of the ceremony. Meanwhile Miss Morrow's trousseau is being prepared and it is understood it will be ready by the end of May.

Friends of the couple believe that the colonel and his future wife favor Mexico, probably Cuernavaca, as a wedding place. The Morrow home is at Cuernavaca.

ENGLISH ACTRESS MARRIES BARON

London, March 21.—(UP)—The famous English actress, "June," today became Lady Inverclyde at St. Columbus church where she was joined in marriage to the 32-year-old fourth Baron of Inverclyde, John Alan Burns.

The marriage revealed that the actress' real name, which during her stage career has been withheld, was Miss Howard Tripp.

QUESTIONNAIRE ON SEX STIRS UP REVOLT IN SCHOOL

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI
WIDE OPEN

HAS EVEN EMBROIDERED STATE LEGISLATURE IN THE ARGUMENT

Columbia, Mo., March 21.—(UP)—
An academic rebellion, which split the University of Missouri wide open and embroiled the state legislature, settled today into trench warfare as rival factions consolidated their lines after broadsides of oratory and resolutions.

A questionnaire on matters of sex distributed to 1,000 students here—cause of the revolt—stands discredited by the executive committee of the board of curators. Three members of the faculty were ousted because of it yesterday, and a fourth resigned.

Raising the slogan, "Freedom of Speech, Thought and Pursuit of Truth," 3,000 members of the student body last night unanimously adopted a resolution urging the curators to reinstate the ousted faculty members, in whom they expressed "confidence and trust."

There the matter, which has rocked this university for a week, probably will rest until April 6 when the curators meet in plenary session at Kansas City to act on the recommendation that the ousters be made permanent.

The ousted professors and their sympathetic student followers took a liberal view of the matter and denounced the state legislature for allegedly "meddling."

Columbia, Mo., March 21.—The sex questionnaire, which sent three University of Missouri professors looking for new jobs and raised a furor on the campus, was distributed as a part of the work in a sociology class and asked thirty frank questions of students.

It was sent to 1,000 students and many answers were returned before the storm broke. The answers are being suppressed.

The first question and the frank one was addressed to young men and asked:

"If you found a young woman, to whom you were engaged, had been sexually immoral, would you break the engagement?"

Another asked what he would do if he found she had been immoral for money.

Another addressed to co-eds was: "Would you quit associating with a man, married or unmarried, on learning that at some time he had engaged in moral irregularities?"

CALVIN COOLIDGE GETS CAR LICENSE

Springfield, Mass., March 21.—(UP)—
Calvin Coolidge, in applying for a license at the registry office here to operate his newly acquired automobile, filled out a form just as any plain citizen must.

Over the line marked "occupation" he wrote simply, "retired."

The car is that which he used during his last year in the White House.

CLOSED BANK PAYS DIVIDEND

St. Paul, March 21.—(UP)—Depositors of the closed State Bank of Genoa today were mailed dividend checks No. 1 of 30 per cent which totalled $13,638, according to A. J. Veigel, state banking commissioner. The institution closed Sept. 17, 1928.

AIRPLANE ROAR HUSHED TO JUST ABOUT A WHISPER

Curtiss Field, L. I., March 21.—(UP)—The airplane's roar has been hushed to a comparative whisper by a silencer device demonstrated here. The whirling of the propeller is about the only noise heard when the silencer invented by Giuseppe Nicolich is attached to the exhaust tube.

BODY OF FIELD MARSHAL FOCH

LIES IN STATE

AT TOMB OF UNKNOWN
POILU

CLAD IN DARK BLUE UNIFORM
OF HIS COUNTRY, WARRIOR
SLEEPS QUIETLY

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, March 21.—The body of Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch, victor over everything but death, lay in state today not far from the eternal flame at the tomb of the unknown poilu.

Clad in the dark blue uniform of his country and decorated with the bright ribbons of her highest honors, the "little warrior" slept quietly at last behind the shuttered windows of his home on Rue De Grenelles.

France knelt—on the first day of spring—before the bier of the mild-mannered military genius who claimed, in death, the redoubled esteem and adoration of the nation which had honored him as victor and savior. Statesmen, peasants and veterans of the world's great war were joined by ambassadors of many nations in humble tribute to France's hero.

Hail to the military glory of Napoleon and of Ney, the supreme commander of the allied war-time armies will lie for a day with most humble of his men beneath the broad curve of the Arc De Triomphe.

Then, after the greatest national funeral honors which France can bestow, the body will rest in the Invalides.

The funeral will be the greatest ever given a French hero, official sources announced. The national services will be delayed until Sunday or Monday to permit time for arrival of foreign delegations.

Premier Poincare announced, after a conference of the cabinet and General Weygand, that the Marshal's funeral would be Tuesday. Burial will be in the Invalides, the premier said.

Preparations were made to receive the body in a crypt at the Invalides between the tombs of Rouget De Lisle, author of the French national anthem, and Marshal Foyatier, not far from the tomb of Napoleon.

There will be a day of national mourning in honor of the man who turned back invading armies from Paris more than a decade ago. Business places will be closed and special arrangements are being made to permit the crippled war veterans, particularly those unable to walk, to pay their last tribute.

Against the gorgeous artificial background of pomp and ceremony, there stood out today the deep and simple grief of a common people for one of their most beloved heroes.

There was no display nor ceremony among these soldiers, laborers and housewives but only an unusual quietness which hid a sincere sorrow for the little man who died when he wanted "Oh, so much!" to walk again in the bright sun outside the shuttered windows.

There was satisfaction, too, in the hearts of the men who had come back from the mud of trenches in Flanders that "Le Marechal" had uttered, even with his last breath, the cry of the poilu: "Allons Y!" (Let's go.)

His physicians had permitted the patient to sit in a chair by the window and watch the street below. Half an hour later his nurse informed him it was time to return to bed.

Madame Foch was seated near the door of the bed room when the marshal died. A priest gave him final absolution several weeks ago but Father Ihande, the marshal's confessor, arrived too late after the last hurried summons.

President Doumergue spent ten minutes before the bier this morning. Georges Clemenceau also visited the Foch home.

American Ambassador Herrick was to visit Madame Foch at noon to convey a message of sympathy from President Hoover.

Marshal Foch's will was read this morning. It was learned that all property was left to the immediate family. Madame Foch was given complete freedom as to place and style of burial.

Plans were speeded to permit the public to view the body Friday either under the Arc De Triomphe or at the Invalides.

"The Motors Went Out on Me"

Lying severely injured in the hospital, Pilot Lou Foote, right, told his grief-stricken wife, left, that it was the failure of the motors which caused him to make the forced landing in the big Ford plane when 14 passengers were crushed to death on the side of loaded freight car near Newark, N. J., airport. The pilot is the only person in the fatal flight who still lives.

MRS. A. M. OPSAHL HEADS CHURCH AID

Ladies Aid of First Presbyterian Church Elects Her President for Year

MRS. D. CARBINE, VICE PRES.

Ladies Raise All But $550 on $5,000 Building Fund Pledge

The ladies aid of the First Presbyterian church held its regular meeting in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon at which time officers were elected for the ensuing year. The following were elected:

President—Mrs. A. M. Opsahl.
Vice President—Mrs. D. Carbine.
Second Vice President—Mrs. Robert Falconer.

Treasurer—Mrs. C. S. Bentley.
Secretary—Mrs. Geo. Putz.

All the officers were re-elected except Mrs. Bentley who will act as secretary in place of Mrs. Rowland Jenkins who wishes to retire from that office. She was presented with a beautiful gift as a recognition of her four and one-half years of efficient service.

An interesting review was given that since June 1927, when the ladies took a pledge of $5,000 on the building fund for the church, they have raised all but $550, and this amount they expect to raise soon. Besides this they have fully equipped their kitchen, bought a chancel window, and many other smaller items. The ladies are to be commended for the work they have done the past year and predictions are that even greater things will be accomplished during the coming year.

SOCIETY TO KEEP 60TH ANNIVERSARY

Three Groups Sponsor Banquet at M. E. Church Tomorrow Evening

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the Methodist church and their daughters, the Standard Bearers, and their mothers, who are not missionary members, will observe the 60th anniversary of the founding of this society March 22, 1869, tomorrow evening in the basement of the Methodist church where a banquet will be served by the Standard Bearers.

The banquet will be served at 6 o'clock and will consist of the following menu: roast, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, creamed peas and carrots, pickles, jelly, bread, fruit jello, cake and coffee.

After the banquet the following program which has been arranged by the mothers will be given and a social time enjoyed:

Community singing.
Welcome—Evelyn Vanek.
Response—Mrs. John Zander.
Trio—Mrs. Ray Hall, Miss Augusta Welch and Mrs. A. W. Moulster.
Solo—Mrs. Ray Hall.
Talk—Mrs. Merrill of Minneapolis, a branch president of this society.

All who are eligible to attend are cordially invited and urged to be there promptly as arrangements have been made to make this the largest and best annual meeting ever held in this city.

Piano Tuner Coming Soon

A. E. McIntyre, the old reliable piano tuner, formerly from one of Minneapolis largest music stores, wishes to announce to the citizens of Brainerd and community that he will from now on have his headquarters at the Hall Music House and will appreciate the patronage of all music loving piano owners.

County and nearby village orders will be given prompt attention if phoned or written to the Hall Music House. All work guaranteed.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

March 21, 1904

Mrs. W. E. Brockway and daughter Miss Irene Brockway, have gone to Pillager for a few days' visit.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. LaBar, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Courtney, Mrs. J. C. Atherton and E. O. Webb left this afternoon for Duluth where they will attend the recital of the world's greatest contralto, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink tonight.

J. M. Quinn returned from Aitkin this afternoon.

Mrs. M. J. Reilly expects to be able to leave St. Joseph's hospital in a day or two.

This afternoon the remains of Mrs. T. C. Kerr, who died in this city a few days ago, were taken to Los Angeles, Calif., for interment, accompanied by the surviving children, Miss Caroline and Christian and Peter Kerr. Brief funeral services were held at Losey & Dean's undertaking parlors this noon.

J. L. Smith came up from Minneapolis this afternoon.

Mrs. H. Theviot returned this morning from the Twin Cities where she has been on a purchasing trip.

Rev. N. J. Gleamaker left for the east this afternoon on business.

Last night was a genuine bluster and things were humming all night. This morning showed several inches of snow had fallen and it was blowing rather a fierce gale. A freight bound south got stuck in the snow a few miles out and had to be brought back in three sections. Nearly all freight trains on the line were out of duty for a time.

LYCEUM TO HAVE NEW AUDITONE

Music Attraction to be in Use at Theatre for First Time Sunday

New Musical Effect Will Cue All Pictures in Vitaphone Style

W. R. Hiller, manager of F. and R. theatres, announced today that he had secured the new Auditone for installation in the Lyceum theatre.

The new music feature at the theatre will replace the present system of music accompaniment and, according to Mr. Hiller, will be popularly received by the people of Brainerd when heard.

Mr. Hiller reported that the machine was expected in the city tomorrow and would be heard for the first time here Sunday matinee and evening.

The new Auditone will permit cueing of all pictures with Vitaphone effect. The cabinet and operating booth of the musical addition will be located in the balcony of the theatre with sound horns on the stage.

WISCONSIN INCOME TAX

THE Minnesota legislature is considering the matter of endorsing an income tax, submitting it as an amendment to be voted on by the people. While this talk is fresh in the minds of all, it is not amiss to consider the experiences of a neighboring state, Wisconsin, in this matter of a state income tax.

Last February Professor Harold M. Grange, of the Department of Economics, University of Wisconsin, delivered an address before the Minnesota Tax Conference at the Saint Paul Hotel, St. Paul, on the Wisconsin Income Tax and his address is given at length in the March number of Minnesota Municipalities magazine.

The professor stated that the Wisconsin income tax had its roots in the decay of the old general property tax. The general property tax had been called on the carpet as early as 1898 when a special tax commission in a vigorous report denounced the familiar evils of under-assessment and the escape of personal property (especially intangible personal property) from the assessment rolls.

"At the time of the adoption of the income tax law probably the majority of its supporters hoped that it would supplant the personal property tax altogether. In 1911 the commission reported that the general property tax so far as it applied to personal property had broken down, that attempts to strengthen its administration merely accentuated its inequalities, and that a substitute was needed. Partly with this end in view and partly to safeguard local revenues during the period of uncertainty as to the yield of the income tax, the personal property tax was included in the original income tax law. It provided in substance that income taxes might be paid with personal property tax receipts. Thus both the income tax and the tax on tangible personal property (with some exemptions) were included in the tax system but with the privilege of offsetting one against the other where they overlapped.

"It is interesting to compare the classified property tax which we have in Minnesota with what is accomplished by combining an income tax and a property tax (with liberal exemptions in the latter). You tax money and credits at a low flat rate of three mills. The income tax at the Wisconsin maximum of six per cent would about equal this rate. Under the Wisconsin system, income earning property is taxed more heavily than non-income earning property for the former bears both a property and an income tax while the latter bears a property tax only. Neither the income tax as thus far developed, or the classified property tax have shown us how we can place upon the owners of intangible property their fair share of the cost of government.

"The work of auditing and assessing was divided between the State Tax Commission and the income tax assessors. The commission was given the power by the income tax act to divide the state into districts over each of which was to be an income tax assessor. The commission deals with the returns of corporations directly, and the income tax assessors deal with the returns of partnerships and individuals. These assessors are not county officers. The other administrative difficulty—that of apportioning income geographically—arises chiefly with interstate corporations doing business within and without the state.

"Every taxpayer who makes a payment to others in the form of salaries, interest, dividends, or debt, if he wishes to be allowed a deduction for such payment as an expense, is required to report the nature and amount of the payment and the name and address of the recipient. The reports are made on prescribed forms of convenient size and are sent to the Tax Commission. The commission acts as a clearing house and send the information to the assessor of incomes in whose district the individual involved makes his return. At the assessor's office these information reports can be clipped to the individual returns.

"In the case of business income the chief defense against fraud is the audit of books. The commission or the income tax assessors can compel the adequate keeping of books and can audit such books when they see fit. Those who are closely in touch with large groups of income tax payers report that most of them are honest and try to obey the law. There are some leaks of course. Not all the bootleggers in Wisconsin have faithfully reported their incomes. Nor have they paid personal property taxes upon their stills."

The professor denies that the income tax rests so heavily upon successful business that it hampers industrial development of the state, but admits it is true that the income tax bears most heavily upon successful corporations. It is also true that Wisconsin collects more through non-property taxes on business than many other states.

The professor draws these conclusions:

"The income tax in Wisconsin has been at least sufficiently successful to have become a fixed part of the tax policy of the state. There is plenty of argument concerning this and that feature of the tax but the tax itself is recognized as equitable even by the groups which now oppose its adoption in other states. There are those who favor the development of the income tax to fulfill the original purpose of its proponents, that is to replace the property tax to a greater and greater degree.

"However, it must be recognized that there are limiting factors in income taxation. The first is that of administration. Better a well administered moderate income tax than one that breaks down because it is overburdened. The second is the high geographical concentration of the tax which makes it impossible for most communities to get very much from it unless a larger proportion of the expenses of such communities is assumed by the state.

"The third is the rivalry among the states for the location of successful business. This difficulty would disappear, of course, if other states were to reverse their present attitude toward the income tax. It would also not hinder the federal government from further developing its income tax in the interest of the states."

ONE by one we are losing old aphorisms. One was that the English had no sense of humor. Another, that they were slow-moving. After Major Segrave's performance at Daytona, the English are certainly moving fast enough.

"My dear, I simply dread this daily shopping!" How many times have you heard that story? More than once, we'll bet a hat. And if you ask the woman who "dreads shopping" just why she does so, you'll usually hear something like this:

"It takes so much time! I start out and look and look and look... and by the time I've found what I want I'm dead on my feet. All in, my dear. I mean I actually am!"

You can do a friend like that a real service. Ask her if she reads the advertisements. Usually she'll look surprised and say, "Not very often. What has that to do with it?"

Tell her how you have your mind all made up before you hang the market basket over your arm... how you're able to save steps, budget your expenditures neatly, get what you want—and all with a minimum of time and effort. WISCONSIN INCOME TAX

THE Minnesota legislature is considering the matter of endorsing an income tax, submitting it as an amendment to be voted on by the people. While this talk is fresh in the minds of all, it is not amiss to consider the experiences of a neighboring state, Wisconsin, in this matter of a state income tax.

Last February Professor Harold M. Grange, of the Department of Economics, University of Wisconsin, delivered an address before the Minnesota Tax Conference at the Saint Paul Hotel, St. Paul, on the Wisconsin Income Tax and his address is given at length in the March number of Minnesota Municipalities magazine.

The professor stated that the Wisconsin income tax had its roots in the decay of the old general property tax. The general property tax had been called on the carpet as early as 1898 when a special tax commission in a vigorous report denounced the familiar evils of under-assessment and the escape of personal property (especially intangible personal property) from the assessment rolls.

"At the time of the adoption of the income tax law probably the majority of its supporters hoped that it would supplant the personal property tax altogether. In 1911 the commission reported that the general property tax so far as it applied to personal property had broken down, that attempts to strengthen its administration merely accentuated its inequalities, and that a substitute was needed. Partly with this end in view and partly to safeguard local revenues during the period of uncertainty as to the yield of the income tax, the personal property tax was included in the original income tax law. It provided in substance that income taxes might be paid with personal property tax receipts. Thus both the income tax and the tax on tangible personal property (with some exemptions) were included in the tax system but with the privilege of offsetting one against the other where they overlapped.

"It is interesting to compare the classified property tax which we have in Minnesota with what is accomplished by combining an income tax and a property tax (with liberal exemptions in the latter). You tax money and credits at a low flat rate of three mills. The income tax at the Wisconsin maximum of six per cent would about equal this rate. Under the Wisconsin system, income earning property is taxed more heavily than non-income earning property for the former bears both a property and an income tax while the latter bears a property tax only. Neither the income tax as thus far developed, or the classified property tax have shown us how we can place upon the owners of intangible property their fair share of the cost of government.

"The work of auditing and assessing was divided between the State Tax Commission and the income tax assessors. The commission was given the power by the income tax act to divide the state into districts over each of which was to be an income tax assessor. The commission deals with the returns of corporations directly, and the income tax assessors deal with the returns of partnerships and individuals. These assessors are not county officers. The other administrative difficulty—that of apportioning income geographically—arises chiefly with interstate corporations doing business within and without the state.

"Every taxpayer who makes a payment to others in the form of salaries, interest, dividends, or debt, if he wishes to be allowed a deduction for such payment as an expense, is required to report the nature and amount of the payment and the name and address of the recipient. The reports are made on prescribed forms of convenient size and are sent to the Tax Commission. The commission acts as a clearing house and send the information to the assessor of incomes in whose district the individual involved makes his return. At the assessor's office these information reports can be clipped to the individual returns.

"In the case of business income the chief defense against fraud is the audit of books. The commission or the income tax assessors can compel the adequate keeping of books and can audit such books when they see fit. Those who are closely in touch with large groups of income tax payers report that most of them are honest and try to obey the law. There are some leaks of course. Not all the bootleggers in Wisconsin have faithfully reported their incomes. Nor have they paid personal property taxes upon their stills."

The professor denies that the income tax rests so heavily upon successful business that it hampers industrial development of the state, but admits it is true that the income tax bears most heavily upon successful corporations. It is also true that Wisconsin collects more through non-property taxes on business than many other states.

The professor draws these conclusions:

"The income tax in Wisconsin has been at least sufficiently successful to have become a fixed part of the tax policy of the state. There is plenty of argument concerning this and that feature of the tax but the tax itself is recognized as equitable even by the groups which now oppose its adoption in other states. There are those who favor the development of the income tax to fulfill the original purpose of its proponents, that is to replace the property tax to a greater and greater degree.

"However, it must be recognized that there are limiting factors in income taxation. The first is that of administration. Better a well administered moderate income tax than one that breaks down because it is overburdened. The second is the high geographical concentration of the tax which makes it impossible for most communities to get very much from it unless a larger proportion of the expenses of such communities is assumed by the state.

"The third is the rivalry among the states for the location of successful business. This difficulty would disappear, of course, if other states were to reverse their present attitude toward the income tax. It would also not hinder the federal government from further developing its income tax in the interest of the states."

ONE by one we are losing old aphorisms. One was that the English had no sense of humor. Another, that they were slow-moving. After Major Segrave's performance at Daytona, the English are certainly moving fast enough.

"My dear, I simply dread this daily shopping!" How many times have you heard that story? More than once, we'll bet a hat. And if you ask the woman who "dreads shopping" just why she does so, you'll usually hear something like this:

"It takes so much time! I start out and look and look and look... and by the time I've found what I want I'm dead on my feet. All in, my dear. I mean I actually am!"

You can do a friend like that a real service. Ask her if she reads the advertisements. Usually she'll look surprised and say, "Not very often. What has that to do with it?"

Tell her how you have your mind all made up before you hang the market basket over your arm... how you're able to save steps, budget your expenditures neatly, get what you want—and all with a minimum of time and effort. Simply because you have the news of the shopping world at your finger-tips all the time, by reading the advertisements every day.

Advertisements are news. Vital, practical news.

CREAM OF STATE HIGH SCHOOL CALERS START TOURNEY

RED WING OR WILLMAR SPOTTED AS FINAL VICTORS

EXPERTS SELECT THEM BECAUSE OF THEIR FORM AND RECORD

MOORHEAD, DEFENDING CHAMPIONS, NOT EQUAL TO TEAM OF LAST YEAR

Minneapolis, March 21.—(UP)—Eight Minnesota high school basketball teams—the cream of the state—were ready and anxious today to enter the first round of the championship tournament at the huge University field house.

The prize which dangled within reach of St. Cloud, Moorhead, Red Wing, Willmar, Preston, Ely, Hendricks and Mechanic Arts of St. Paul was the right to represent Minnesota in the national tournament at Chicago.

Keen students of the game declared that the winner of the Red Wing-Willmar game in the eight o'clock round tonight perhaps will win the state trophy, the individual gold basketballs awarded to the champions, and the trip to Chicago.

These two teams were selected by the experts on their form and on their records, both of which were impressive.

Moorhead, the defending champions, haven't quite the club which carried off the title last year, it was pointed out, and even that smoothly running machine would be extended to the next year.

Mechanic Arts, Hendricks and Ely were admitted to the tournament but were considered as outsiders.

The Red Wing-Willmar game was expected to be a close one, and the chance to enter the finals on Saturday night.

The initial first round contest will start at 3 P. M. this afternoon, being together the Red Wing-Willmar, St. Cloud, and Preston.

St. Cloud has not had a great record this year but the team has shown consistent and steady improvement.

KASCH CALLS SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE MONDAY

Newark club were astonished to see a major league pennant contender—the A's are still one—play such mediocre baseball.

I can't understand what's holding us back," Mack said. "We have had injuries but they haven't been serious enough to cause all the trouble."

For one thing, Mack is having plenty of trouble picking his infield. He has tried Ossie Orwoll, the hard-hitting southpaw, at first base and is dissatisfied with the result.

"Orwoll doesn't seem to be able to play first base," Mack acknowledged. "I guess I'll have to use Jimmy Fox there unless Orwoll shows improvement right away."

Mack had planned to use Fox at third, and if he moves the versatile youngster to first base, he'll leave a gap on the other side of the diamond. If Fox plays first, Sammy Hale, now out, ought to be a great player but isn't, of Jimmy Dukes will play third.

Other infield trouble may develop at shortstop. Joe Boley has a sore arm and Joe Hassler has yet to prove he is of major league calibre.

Max Bishop, star second baseman, who recently deserted the ranks of the holdouts, is far from being in shape, but may be expected to be back at the Keystone camp shortly.

Mack has two great outfielders in Al Simmons and Bing Miller but Mule Haas, who relegated Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb to the bench last season, has never proved himself a hitter of major league quality.

Lefty Grove is not in good shape, training being retarded by the effects of an attack of influenza. George Earnshaw, who won a regular berth on the pitching staff last season, has not reported.

Howard Egan, another veteran pitcher, has a bad arm.

Y. M. C. A. CAGERS ASSURED PLACE IN STATE TOURNEY

Supper Sponsored for Saturday to Raise Expense Money

Mothers of Players, Tri-Hi Club Assist in Supper Arrangements

On checking up the tickets sold for the Y. M. C. A. basketball team's supper which will be held at the office of the Northern States Power Co. from 5:30 to 8 P. M. Saturday only fifty remain unsold, which practically assures the local teams' entry to the state Y. M. C. A. tournament to be held at St. Paul April 12th and 13th.

The entry fee of $10 has already been sent to the tournament authorities and preparations are being made by members of the team to dispose of the remaining fifty tickets so that other expenses at St. Paul will be defrayed. It being a public supper held down town, a large number are expected to buy their tickets at the door, as preparations are being made to serve a capacity crowd.

A committee of mothers of members of the team met at the Y. M. C. A. earlier in the week and arranged a very appetizing menu for the supper. They are sparing no efforts to make it a real success.

Fifteen girls of the Tri-Hi club, a student organization of the high school which meets every Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A., have volunteered their services to wait on tables, and the Methodist church has kindly consented to the use of their dishes and silverware.

The Y. M. C. A. team, meanwhile, is practicing twice a week at the Y. M. C. A. gym to get themselves in shape to bring the tournament cup to Brainerd.

Ed. Cronquist bought a horse from Henry Elletson last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gordon were Brainerd visitors one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Ringering were in Brainerd on Wednesday of last week.

Lester Hilderbrand who has been employed in Brainerd for a while is home again.

The town board met again on last Monday to attend to necessary business. Mr. Buehler was re-elected on the board at the recent election.

Clarence Engelhart was in town last Monday.

It begins to seem more spring like lately since the bluebirds have come back. We will all be glad when the roads have dried up sufficiently so we can get the old "Ford" out again.

Epoch Swanson had Carl Nelson saw wood for him last Monday.

House a Home First

By QUIN HALL.

HAVING appeared a new pilot in the person of Bucky Harris, Detroit and the Speed Town fans are glowingly optimistic over the coming season's prospects. Naturally that's just before the regular season starts. Much may also depend on some of the new material which Harris recommended, and the management bought or secured by trades.

George Uhle is one of the ones on which Harris is doing some heavy gambling. Once the best right-handed pitcher in the American League, Uhle is hoping to stage a comeback with Detroit. If he succeeds, Bucky will get the credit for being a wise boy, as he was largely responsible for the trade which sent Shortstop Taverner and Pitcher Holloway to the Cleveland Indians in exchange for the twirler.

Manager Harris also recommended the payment of $100,000 to the Toronto International League club for First Baseman Dale Alexander and Pitcher Johnny Prudden. These fellows did good work for the Canadian club and are likely to strengthen the Tigers.

Then, through the instigation of Harris, the Detroit club paid $75,000 to San Francisco for Outfielder Roy Johnson and something like $15,000 to Houston in the Texas League for Shortstop Heinie Schube. Johnson is almost sure of a spot in the outfield with Rice and Harry Heilmann. The former Seal cut considerable didoes on the Pacific Coast and is expected to be one of the best new players in the big leagues this year.

For a time Bucky figured on switching Heilmann from the outfield to cover first base, in order to bolster up the hitting strength of his infield, but, with the acquisition of Alexander it is doubtful that this will be done. Heilmann is a tower of strength in the Detroit offensive attack, and there is always a chance that a shift to the infield might take away some of his hitting power.

Harris' interest in the training grind fairly confident of putting the Tigers in the midst of the fighting, right from the drop of the bat. He's a capable pilot and, with his new material, should have a well balanced club. The fans do the Tigers as the dark horse in the coming American League race.

MOTHERS OF PLAYERS, TRI-HI CLUB ASSIST IN SUPPER ARRANGEMENTS

On checking up the tickets sold for the Y. M. C. A. basketball team's supper which will be held at the office of the Northern States Power Co. from 5:30 to 8 P. M. Saturday only fifty remain unsold, which practically assures the local teams' entry to the state Y. M. C. A. tournament to be held at St. Paul April 12th and 13th.

The entry fee of $10 has already been sent to the tournament authorities and preparations are being made by members of the team to dispose of the remaining fifty tickets so that other expenses at St. Paul will be defrayed. It being a public supper held down town, a large number are expected to buy their tickets at the door, as preparations are being made to serve a capacity crowd.

A committee of mothers of members of the team met at the Y. M. C. A. earlier in the week and arranged a very appetizing menu for the supper. They are sparing no efforts to make it a real success.

Fifteen girls of the Tri-Hi club, a student organization of the high school which meets every Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A., have volunteered their services to wait on tables, and the Methodist church has kindly consented to the use of their dishes and silverware.

Detroit Is Optimistic

HEILMANN'S HEAVY HITTING IS SURE TO HELP THE TIGERS' PENNANT CHANCES THIS YEAR.

Stanley "Bucky" HARRIS BUCKY WILL BE DOING HIS BEST TO UNFURL A FLAG OVER THE SPEED TOWN IN HIS FIRST YEAR AT DETROIT.

By QUIN HALL.

HAVING secured a new pilot in the person of Bucky Harris, Detroit and the Speed Town fans are glowingly optimistic over the coming season's prospects. Naturally that's a Detroit viewpoint, but the fans scattered over the country are pretty well agreed that the Tigers will be the dark horse in the American League if there is a sombre nag in the 1929 pennant race.

Reports from Phoenix, Ariz., where the Tigers train, are almost as glowing as the optimism expressed by the home fans. Unfortunately, most pre-season reports must be discounted or else there would be eight winning clubs in each league.

However, the fans are pretty well agreed that, in grabbing Harris as pilot, the management did rather a masterful thing. Bucky still has much managerial ability and, if he can do as good a job at Detroit as he did at Washington, the Tigers are almost certain to make a better showing than they have for many years.

Harris may also take a turn at playing second base. His presence on the field is apt to put a lot of extra pep into the Detroit infield. Before the training grind started, Bucky said that he would do a little experimenting

CANDIDATES GET BUSY FOR ELECTION

Mayor F. E. Little Stands Alone for Office; Fullerton Unopposed

TAME ELECTION EXPECTED
Close Race However Predicted for Judge of Municipal Court

Braierd's political pot was boiling today as candidates entered into actual campaigning for the city election, April 2.

As viewed today the city election should be a tame one but nevertheless close races are expected in various offices.

Mayor Frank E. Little has his petition out for candidacy for re-election. As yet no one has come along to dispute his claim to that position.

A close race is predicted in the office of Judge of Municipal Court. The incumbent, Judge J. H. Warner has already filed his petition. Lamonte P. Koop was expected to file his position for candidacy to that office within the next 24 hours.

Richard Ilse, incumbent and George A. Tracy will oppose each other in the race for the office of city treasurer.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton stands out alone for the office he now holds. As yet no other candidate has circulated a petition for that office.

M. E. Hitch is at present unopposed for the office of assessor.

W. J. Lyons, president of the city council, seeks re-election from the first ward. He is at present unopposed.

A. A. Weideman has his petition out for alderman from the second ward. Alderman Martin Anderson announced yesterday that he would not run for the council this year.

V. F. Anderson filed his petition this morning. He seeks re-election as alderman from the third ward. Anderson will be opposed by Gust Wahlstrom who at present has his petition out.

At the present V. E. Quamstrom, incumbent, is alone in the field for alderman from the fourth ward.

A three cornered fight is expected in the fifth ward aldermanic election. C. G. Holmstrom, incumbent, J. M. Mraz and Harry Cregger. Mr. Holmstrom has yet to declare himself.

The situation is as follows today in the school board race: Fred Drexler, incumbent is out for reelection from the first ward; Dr. G. H. Ribbel is unopposed for office from the second ward with the declaration by G. D. LaBar that he will not seek reelection this year; Robert Crist is unopposed for reelection in the third ward; Hugo Sundberg and Andrew Anderson are expected to come out for the two vacancies in the board from the fourth ward; Elmer Olson filed his petition today for candidacy in the fifth ward. Mr. Olson, who is cashier of the Citizens State bank, was born and raised in the ward and is making his first bid for office. P. M. Hagberg, incumbent, has decided not to run this year.

The closing time of filing of petitions is Saturday at 5 p. m.

TWO STAGE FIGHT ON STREET CORNER

Glenroy Schnell and Emil Kunde Fined $10 Each in Municipal Court Today

BOTH TAKE BEATINGS
Officer August Swanson Forced to Use Tear Gas to Stop Fight After Arrest

Two Braierd boys appeared in Municipal court this morning bearing unmistakable marks of a struggle, their faces cut and each having a discolored eye.

As a result of the fight Glenroy Schnell and Emil Kunde pleaded guilty to charges of disturbing the peace and striking each other. Fines of $10 and costs were imposed.

The fracas took place near the corner of Seventh and Laurel streets last evening. Officer August Swanson who made the arrest reported that he was forced to use tear gas to prevent additional fighting in bringing the two to jail.

The cause of the fight appeared vague when reviewed in court this morning. Police allege that the defendants had been drinking previously to the fist encounter.

Lillian Gish A Hit In Her First Big Modern Role

Human interest, on the screen, is even harder to portray than massive spectacle, according to Fred Niblo, famous director of "Ben-Hur," whose latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "The Enemy," starring Lillian Gish, is now playing at the Lyceum theatre.

There are several reasons for this, according to the director, who, in the Gish vehicle, stresses human relationships rather than the spectacular side of film production as exemplified in the other story named.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Lilith Holden died and left the infant Lilith, Guinn, her husband, married Irene Robeline, who had been in love with Guinn. For twenty years Irene worked and slaved as the wife of the handsome Texas minister. The love she hoped to earn she found was given wholly to the beautiful grown-up Lilith. As Guinn spoiled this blonde image of the dead Lilith, Irene buried her grief in ministering to her own children, Tina, Ross, Lundy and Patricia, who were secondary in their father's affections. After college Lilith, given a year to study music in New York, fell in love with Bill Chester, scion of wealth and family tradition. At home Tina wearing Lilith's cast off clothes, which failed to hide her dark gypsy-like beauty, becomes engaged to a handsome lad, Dan, beloved by all the family. Lilith, seeking only her own selfish ends, breaks her engagement with Roger Devereux, Texas boy, when Bill promises to end his betrothal to Sally Burton, society girl. Before sailing for Paris where his rich grandfather has demanded his presence, Bill madly in love with Lilith devotes his last week to her. Before sailing she seals her love by giving herself to him. Lilith spends her days re-reading Bill's cables confirming his love. But in Paris he agrees to marry Sally at his grandfather's command. Lilith is stunned with the message, "Sally and I were married this morning. Forgive me and forget me. Lilith for the first time learned grief. She threw herself into her music study. Then came an offer of a Winter in Paris with Vivien Winthrop, an opportunity to waver with Bill with scorn. But a doctor's visit ends all. Lilith is to have a child. She moves to an unknown address. Will Lundy, family friend, finds her there and tells the truth to Irene upon his return.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LVIII.

"BUT that's the very reason he couldn't stand it. Don't you see?" she cried brokenly. "He'll remember that I objected to her going—and didn't want her to stay, after the fact. He'll blame himself so terribly!"

"He ought to. And anyhow, he's got to know."

"No, no!" Her face was appalled at the thought.

"How are you going to keep him from it?"

Color swept back to her blanched face, a look of resolve to her tearful eyes. "I'll make an excuse to go to New York! I'll see her through!"

"Irene, don't be crazy!" "He couldn't bear this, Will. I've got to bear it for him."

"But you can't!"

"Yes, I can, somehow. Oh, what if it were Tina?" Her eyes were scalded with tears.

"Then you'd let Guinn know and share the burden with you," he accused her.

"Yes—because it wouldn't hurt him so much if it were anybody but Lilith. Think how it would wreck his work—his life. He couldn't hide it, he's too guileless."

"How could he ever stand in the pulpit, hold his head up anywhere—again?" Her words came in staccato jerks.

"Do you think you can lie?" he asked ironically.

"I can do anything—to save him heartbreak. You'll help me, Will?"

"Of course. I'll stampede hell, I'll put out a prairie fire with my bare hands, if it would do you any good. I'll be standing right by you when the last trump sounds. But I think you're out of your mind!"

Her lips trembled, and she snatched his hand to kiss it.

"Dear, dear Will! You've meant so much to me, always!"

"A hell of a lot I've meant to you."

"If you had a daughter of your own, Will, you'd realize what this would mean to Guinn," she faltered.

A bleak smile came on his face. "No, I have no daughter. The children of Alice call Bartram father."

"Oh, Will!" she cried brokenly, and leaned her head against his shoulder as sobs racked her.

"Steady, Irene, steady!" he warned her. "Save your strength, for we're going to need it. Now let's work out a plan of campaign. A plan that will hold water."

"Yes," she whispered, as she sat up and dried her eyes.

"I'll give out that I'm going back to New York to study hospitals for a few weeks. I'll leave right away, so I can be there to meet you when you come."

"Yes."

"When can you break away?"

"I'd better go on Saturday—so I don't have to face all those women asking questions on Sunday at church."

"That's sensible. There are buzzard gossips in this town, and we don't want them to scent out any prey."

"I'll leave explanations to Guinn and Tina. They won't know anything to conceal, so they can fool the people."

"All right, then. I'll meet you at the Pennsylvania station next Monday. Wire me, in care of the Pennsylvania Hotel, what train you're on. Don't worry. I'll see you through."

she were alone in their bedroom, she began her attempt at deception.

"Guinn, dear," she began, lightly brushing the hair back from his forehead, "there's something I want very much to do. Will you let me?" Her voice wobbled a bit, but he didn't seem to notice.

"Am I a domestic tyrant?" he asked indulgently.

"No. But this is something special—something you may think foolish."

"I often do. But you go ahead and do what you want to, anyhow."

She gave him a playful shake that he might not feel the trembling of her body close to his.

"I want to go to New York for a little visit and come home with Lilith," she blurted out.

"Oh, Lilith will be coming home right away. I've made up my mind to wait for her pleasure year is up. She'll be here before you could get ready to start."

"Now you are objecting, after all," she complained in a whimsical tone. Did it sound whimsical to him?

"What makes you take such a sudden notion?" he countered.

"I'm a sudden person, sometimes. And I haven't had a vacation in a coon's age. . . . I could stay a little while in New York and then bring Lilith home. You'd like that, wouldn't you, Guinn?"

He smoked his evening cigar reflectively. "Wait till Tina's wedding is over—" he began.

"You're always holding up everything till the girls get married, and then you won't let them marry when they want to!" she cut in.

He puffed, unperturbed by her vehemence. "After Tina's wedding is off our minds, you and I'll go up there together. Sort of second honeymoon. We never did have a wedding trip, did we?"

No, they never even had a wedding, never even got married, she told herself.

"We'll go again then," she said recklessly. "But I want most awful, Guinn, to go now. And I won't ask you for the money. I'll take part of my own pleasure money."

"You're really serious about this, Irene?" he asked her.

"Very serious. It came over me at once, a full-grown plan. I feel I can't bear it—if you don't let me go!"

He rubbed his forehead, as he did when he was perplexed.

"Well, women are queer. But if you aren't willing to wait a few months for me to go with you—what can I say?"

Oh, how she longed to yield to his invitation! How ironic that it should come only now, when she couldn't.

She steadied her voice, to answer. "I know you seem selfish to me, Guinn, but—I'll make it up to you later—somehow. Just indulge me in this."

"When do you want to start?" he asked gloomily.

"The sooner I start, the sooner I'll be ready to come home. I can leave here Saturday—and be with Lilith Monday night."

"I'll send her a wire you're coming," he offered.

"No, please don't! I want to surprise her. Please promise me you won't say a word."

"Suit yourself." There was a sharp edge of reserve in his voice. She stooped over him, her eyes full of yearning love, which she mustn't let him see. What if anything happened to him while she was gone? If harm came to one of the children?

As she lay in the darkness beside him, and listened to his sleeping breath, her pillow was wet with tears. She sent up shuddering prayers for guidance, for strength, for wisdom. She asked God over and over to help her live convincingly.

Next morning Guinn looked at her hopefully, as if thinking surely she had changed her mind and would tell him she wasn't going.

But finding that she hadn't changed, he was silent, morose. At his look of disappointment and grievance she felt impelled to laugh hysterically. Instead, she had to pour his coffee and pass it to him, her brow tranquil, her hand quiet.

She seemed to hear Will Lundy's voice beside her: "Steady, Irene, steady."

If she rattled the cups a trifle more than usual, Guinn failed to notice it, and went his way as soon as he had eaten.

Dan dropped by on his way to the office to have a cup of coffee and a word with Tina. The boy and Pat had hustled off to school.

"Why is Father so gloomy this morning?" asked Tina.

"He has melancholia because I'm going to leave him for a couple of weeks. Going to New York."

Tina stared at her in amazement. "What in the world for?"

"I thought I'd see the sights, have a little change, and bring Lilith home," she answered in a tone she hoped was jaunty.

"Oh, Mother, not really? Take me with you?"

She shook her head. "Not this time, darling."

"Oh, but think what fun we could all have together. Father didn't let me go when I wanted to, to study." Her tone was eager, her white face alight with anticipation.

"No, dear, you stay home and look after Father and the youngsters. You'll be going on your wedding trip the first thing you know."

"I've half a mind to elope while you're gone!" she cried rebelliously.

"So long as Dan and you elope with each other, I shouldn't object," she laughed. She poured herself an extra cup of coffee, feeling in need of a stimulant.

"Well, I must say I think this is funny!" scowled Tina. "All of a sudden like this. But you don't mean it, for you wouldn't leave your garden in planting time," she cried happily.

"Yes, I thought I'd go," she said. "I haven't had a vacation in ever and ever."

"Well, if you really are set on going, then I want you to go," Tina capitulated magnanimously. "I'll root for you, and I'll take care of the house and family."

"That's my good daughter," she said unsteadily. "And I'll pick up something nice for your trousseau there."

When Will Lundy came by that morning she told him somewhat hysterically of the progress of her plan. "My family think I'm crazy."

"Right they are! Are you still sure it's the best thing to do?" he growled.

"Quite so. But what a liar I am getting to be! I smell the brimstone heating for me. I scramble from lie to lie like Eliza crossing the ice."

"Going to leave anybody with the children?"

"Miss Mattie. She's a hair shirt. I'll keep the family irritated and hot up so they won't be lonesome."

He looked at her dubiously. "Miss Mattie is a witch for guessing secrets. And she's got a tongue like an alarm clock."

"The family won't know anything to conceal, so there'll be no suspicion. And Miss Mattie gets along better with Sheba than anyone else does that I could ask to come. They agree on company and spoiling menfolk and a few other live topics. I've thought it all out."

"Well, here's hoping."

Sheba was harder to fool than anyone in the family. When Irene told her of the plan, the jungle eyes narrowed in a knowing look, the thick lips stuck out rebelliously. "Looking like they'd been stung by a bumblebee," the boys said of Sheba's angry lips.

"Hecum Miss Lily can't ride home by herself on a railroad train!" she demanded. "Leave my baby, when she goes off treckly anyhow!"

"Miss Lilith isn't well, Sheba. The tall form straightened wrathfully. "Who wants her to come back heah, anyways? Bossing everybody on the place. Why'n't you leave her stay there? New York's good enough for her!"

"Well, women are queer. But if you aren't willing to wait a few months for me to go with you—what can I say?"

Oh, how she longed to yield to his invitation! How ironic that it should come only now, when she couldn't.

She steadied her voice, to answer. "I know it seems selfish of me, Guinn, but—I'll make it up to you later—somehow. Just indulge me in this."

"When do you want to start?" he asked gloomily.

"The sooner I start, the sooner I'll be ready to come home. I can leave here Saturday—and be with Lilith Monday night."

"I'll send her a wire you're coming," he offered.

"No, please don't! I want to surprise her. Please promise me you won't say a word."

"Suit yourself." There was a sharp edge of reserve in his voice. She stooped over him, her eyes full of yearning love, when she mustn't let him see. What if anything happened to him while she was gone? If harm came to one of the children?

As she lay in the darkness beside him, and listened to his sleeping breath, her pillow was wet with tears. She sent up shuddering prayers for guidance, for strength, for wisdom. She asked God over and over to help her lie convincingly.

Next morning Guinn looked at her hopefully, as if thinking surely she had changed her mind and would tell him she wasn't going. But finding that she hadn't changed, he was silent, morose. At his look of disappointment and grievance she felt impelled to laugh hysterically. Instead, she had to pour his coffee and pass it to him, her brow tranquil, her hand quiet. She seemed to hear Will Lundy's voice beside her: "Steady, Irene, steady."

If she rattled the cups a trifle more than usual, Guinn failed to notice it, and went his way as soon as he had eaten.

Dan dropped by on his way to the office to have a cup of coffee and a word with Tina. The boys and girls had hustled off to school.

"Why is Father so gloomy this morning?" asked Tina.

"He has melancholia because I'm going to leave him for a couple of weeks. Going to New York."

Tina stared at her in amazement. "What in the world for?"

"I thought I'd see the sights, have a little change, and bring Lilith home," she answered in a tone she hoped was jaunty.

"Oh, Mother, not really? Take me with you?"

She shook her head. "Not this time, darling."

"Oh, but think what fun we could all have together. Father didn't let me go when I wanted to, to study." Her tone was eager, her white face alight with anticipation.

"No, dear, you stay home and look after Father and the youngsters. You'll be going on your wedding trip the first thing you know."

"You're half a mind to elope while you're gone!" she cried rebelliously.

"So long as Dan and you elope with each other, I shouldn't object," she laughed. She poured herself an extra cup of coffee, feeling in need of a stimulant.

"Well, I must say I think this is funny!" scowled Tina. "All of a sudden like this. But you don't mean it, for you wouldn't leave your garden in planting time," she cried goodly.

"Yes, I thought I'd go," she said. "I haven't had a vacation in ever and ever."

"Well, if you really are set on going, then I want you to go," Tina capitulated magnanimously. "I'll root for you, and I'll take care of the house and family."

"That's my good daughter," she said unsteadily. "And I'll pick up something nice for your trousseau there."

When Will Lundy came by that morning she told him somewhat hysterically of the progress of her plan: "My family think I'm crazy."

"Right they are! Are you still sure it's the best thing to do?" he growled.

"Quite so. But what a liar I am getting to be! I smell the brimstone heating for me. I scramble from lie to lie like Eliza crossing the ice."

"Going to leave anybody with the children?"

"Miss Mattie. She's a hair shirt. She'll keep the family irritated and het up so they won't be lonesome."

He looked at her dubiously. "Miss Mattie is a witch for guessing secrets. And she's got a tongue like an alarm clock."

"The family won't know anything to conceal, so there'll be no suspicion. And Miss Mattie gets along better with Sheba than anyone else does that I could ask to come. They agree on company and spoiling menfolks and a few other live topics. I've thought it all out."

"Well, here's hoping." Sheba was hard to fool than anyone in the family. When Irene told her of the plan, the jungle eyes narrowed in a knowing look, the thick lips stuck out rebelliously. "Looking like they'd been stung by a bumblebee," the boys said of Sheba's angry lips.

"Huccum Miss Lily can't ride home by herself on a railroad train?" she demanded. "Leave my baby, when she goin' off treckly and?"

"Miss Lilith isn't well, Sheba. The tall form straightened wrathfully. "Who wants her to come back heah, anyways? Bossing everybody on the place. Why'n't you leave her stay there? New York's good enough for her."
